A "BLOOMER" BALL. Much Like Men That Nobody

(REGULAH ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)
CHICAGO, July 18.—At Jackson Park and probably the first one ever given, was the attraction. The girls in bloomers calmly forget the mandate of society that bloomers and bloycles were twins and marched into the ballroom twins and marched into the ballroom and danced the hours away without a thought of the poor, forsaken "bike." The dancers began arriving about 8 occlock. At 8:30 o'clock the soft, persuasive music of the walts began, but at first there was just a bit of hesitancy all around. Everybody said to everybody else, "You go; why, you're not afraid?" and then everybody said to everybody else, "Of course not; are you?" But just the same no one started and Hyde Park and Woodlawn held their breaths and waited in terrible suspense.

And then Miss Minnie Burlett and H. Montgomery Fuller gilded out under the full glare of the calcium dights smidst laughing applause, and the bloomer-girl had won. Soon forty, couples were on the floor, and the scene was a most animated one.

At an early stage of the game it was found necessary to the handkerchiefs around the women's arms in order to tell who was who, and R. V. Chase danced three delightful measures with Freddle Jordan before he discovered that Freddy was a base deceiver. The girls were continually finding hew delights in the novel party, and kept the blase youth guessing as to what they would do next. If the men would not dance with them they could dance with themselves, and really no one knew the difference.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) HAVANA, July 18.—(By South American Cable.) A detachment of the Second Battalion of Marine Infantry at San Diego de Lavell, province of Santa Clara, engaged a band of insurgents. Gen. Lugue having been in-formed that the insurgent leader, Ber-mudez, intended to burn the village of San Diego de Lavell, ordered a detach-ment of 130 men of the Marine Infantry and fifteen volunteers, to defend the place.

The troops, upon arriving at the scene of operations, found that the village was surrounded by about three hundred insurgents, who had been keeping up a heavy fire on the little garrison. The latter resisted gallantly until the reinforcements arrived, when the marines, under Capt. Duenas, attacked routed and dispersed the insurgents who left twelve dead and twenty who left twelve dead and twenty wounded on the field. Bermudez and his lieutenant, Linarez, were wounded. special organization of the young people was a matter under consideration. Today the denomination is practically a unit in favor of both the local organization of the young people and the fraternal union of their organization for the study and emphasis of this particular order of church work. A great achievement in our denominational history was won when, in 1891, this Young People's Union of America was organized. The last year has been emphatically the best of the four which the union has seen. Enthusiasm for the move-

sed. The last year has been emphatically the best of the four which the union has seen. Enthusiasm for the movement was greatly kindled by the Toronto convention.

"The whole year has recorded the new impetus given. Quiet work by thousands of our Baptist young people in their several societies is rapidly showing the value of their forces. Progress has been made in the spirit of federation. Our Canadian and Southern brethren were introduced to each other last year at Toronto. This year North and South, East and West, have come together in the notable ways of Baptist fellowship and co-operation."

The fifth international convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America began today. It was sweltering hot within the great tent brought from Cleveland for the convention. Promptly at 10 o'clock President John H. Chapman of Chicago called upon the chorus of 500 voices, which responded with two selections. The president was very happy in his address, and called forth much laughter when he alluded to the warm hearts and warm sun of the South.

The consolidation embraces five separate groups of phosphate interests, the Lone, Hard, Rock, Pebble and the low grades found along the seacoast. Over fifty companies now located in Florida, South Carolina and Tennessee are included in the combination. Over-production has caused low prices and demoralization of the business, and many companies have had to shut down."

It is understood that when the consolidation is completed bonds will be issued to raise a working capital of $1,000,000, and the stock issue will go to the present owners of the properties in exchange for their holdings. Prices are to be advanced.

le Confesses to Having Worked to a Living-References to Judge Sherman and Other Promineut People.

REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) CHICAGO, July 18.—It was the knife to the hilt today in the Horr-Harvey encounter. Mr. Horr opened up the sharp work right at the start. He said his opponent had stated: "Mr. Horr has only taught in this debate a proposition that is in the interest of course." sition that is in the interest of every money-lender in the world to advocate and he is here advocating it."

"I say to my opponent now I am not money-lender, I have not a dollar's in-American corporation or any other corporation on the face of the earth. I have spent my entire life in working for a living; all the early part of that life was spent in hard work on a small life was spent in hard work on a small farm; I commenced working for myself at $10 a month. There is hardly any kind of hard, manual labor in which I have not at some time in my life engaged; consequently my sympathies are with the people who live by toil. I never meet a brakeman or a baggageman without feeling kindly toward him because for months I was brakeman on a freight-train night and day, and my first promotion to a baggagemaster was one of the proudest moments of my life. before the onslaught of Chinese. When these advices left the island the "Black Flags" were advancing to attack Reckham.

THE FORMOSAN REPUBLIC.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The State Department has received from Minister Denby at Peking a dispatch dated June 13, concerning the late republic of Formosa, and says:

"The republic will go into history as the most short-lived government that aver existed. The Japanese have taken from the capital, Tarpeiful, and order there will soon be restored. Ex-Gov. Tang was inaugurated on the 15th of May, and he and his Cabinet have alpready left the island, and it is questionable whether the people are at all concerned at the change of government of the island. The movement for indepandence was organized by the officials.

"There were 50,000 Chinese troops in Formosa. They are all armed, but will not fight. Many of these braves are now in Amoy fighting foreigners. The forts at Kealing were, as is usual with Chinese forts, indefensible in the rear, though they were very strong on the sea side, and were improved with Armstrong, Krupp and machine-guns."

The Formosan Declaration of Independence recites that the Japanese have affronted China by annexing Formosa; that the people are resolved to die before they will serve the enemy, and have determined in council to convert Formosa into a republican state. It is said that frequent conferences have been held with foreign powers, who hold that the people of Formosa must establish their independence before the moust will assist them.

has been, as numerous selfish bank presidents have at one time been, tillers of the soil.

Horr. In reference to my having been a bank president, I omitted it not because I was ashamed of the fact. It is true that at one time I had saved what we in some places, not in this city, would call a competency, and I was a president of a national bank, In the crash of 1873 I went down. What I had saved was swept from under me. My position as president of the bank I resigned; but I did not steal any money of the bank—not a dollar. I went into the world again single-handed, and went to work, and while putting in logs in the northern part of Michigan I was nominated for Congress and sent there, served six years of my life, and did the hardest work I ever did during those six years. I came out of Congress just as poor as I went in; I could not come out any poorer, it was an impossibility, (Laughter.) Mr. Harvey is facetious because I have stated that the money question has given me the headache. I did state that, but, mark you, it was the study of the question which made my head ache, not writing such stuff as is in this book. That would not give any man the headache.

Mr. Horr continued to argue that the act of 1875 was prepared after submitache, not writing such stuff as is in this book. That would not give any man the headache.

Mr. Horr continued to argue that the act of 1873 was prepared after submitting the question to a large number of experts all over the country. The country had not had a revision of the mint laws for a number of years, and the men in charge of the mint thought the time had come when something should be done. Among the men consulted on the question were Mr. Boutwell. the Secretary of the Treasury; Mr. Knox, Deputy Comptroller of the Currency Mr. Linderman, Director of the Mint. Mr. Parsons, superintendent of the mint at Philadelphia. Horr continued:

"My friend here intimates that this law must have been wicked because it was hitched onto the revision of the mint-laws. Why, that is where it belonged. That was the place to find it. The bill, with the correspondence, was submitted to Congress in the most complete form, and with an elaborate report from Mr. Knox, which explained all its provisions. Thousands of the bills were sent broadcast to all parts of the country. The Bankers' Magazine, in its number of July, 1870, printed this report of Mr. Knox and commented on the same. The bill prepared by Mr. Knox was indorsed by Secretary Boutwell of the treasury and transmitted to the Senate on April 25, 1870. The bill, as it was at that time drafted, dropped the dollar silver coin of the United States, and changed the unit of value. That was in the original bill, as it was sent to the Senate, with a letter from the Secretary. Now, nobody tried to cover up that fact. In this report of Mr. Knox were found all the letters of these different experts to whom had been sent a draft of the bill, and who had been asked for their opinions on it. These letters were all printed by order of the Senate in connection with the carefully-prepared statement of Mr. Knox."

Harvey. Mr. Horr, permit me. Have you the bill and those letters with you? Horr. I have not got them here today, but I have them in the city, I think.

day, but I have them in the city, I think.

Harvey. Will you produce them during the debate?

Horr. I will if I have them. I do not know whether I brought them with me, but I think I did. Mr. Patterson wrote to Mr. Knox, and his letter was printed in the public documents. I will say to this house that every single document I have referred to I copied from the books of the government in the city of Washington myself individually, so I know what I am talking about. Mr. Patterson said: "The silver dollars, half-dimes and 3-cent pieces are dispensed with by the Senate amendment. Gold becomes the standard money, of which the gold dollar is the unit. Silver is subsidiary, embracing coins from the dime to the half-dollar. Can anything be more plain than that? Was there any covering up of anything in that letter?"

THE CONDITION OF CONGRESS.

THE CONDITION OF CONGRESS.

Harvey. In the presentation of demonetization I have called attention to the condition, morally, of Congress at the time of the passage of the act; to the imposehment charges against Vice-President Colfax in 1873 for fraud in connection with legislation; to the resignation of Secretary of War Belknap for bribery, in 1873. I now proceed, after first stating for Mr. Horr's information, that Delmar, the English historian, says that the Act o' 1816 demonetizing silver in England had a clause in it that it might be reinstated by the King; that that clause giving a right to reinstatement was repealed in 1871, and that the act in which it was repealed was within two weeks in the hands of Mr. Knox, the comptroller of the United States Treasury, (applause) and was in part the basis of the act in this country. THE CONDITION OF CONGRESS.

the United States Treasury, (applause) and was in part the basis of the act in this country.

There was an era of corruption in Congress at that time. Clinton Colgate confessed before the Ways and Means Committee of 1873 to the use of money to influence the incorporation of special features in the internal revenue bill, testifying, among other things, that Charles Sherman of Ohio, a brother of Senator Sherman, had been paid, $10,000 by the New York Stock Exchange in connection with the revenue bill. The officials of the Stock Exchange were subpoenaed and the facts developed that, while the money had not been paid, Judge Sherman had rendered a bill to the exchange for his services, and, as he claimed, for securing the services of his brother, Senator Sherman, to put the bill through (Applause.) It would readily exhaust the words of this debate to go into all the investigations of that notorious Congress.

Congress.

Horr. The attempt of Mr. Harvey to smirch the Congress of the United States and make the people of this country believe that the people who acted as members of Congress in this country as a rule have been corrupt and were subject to purchase and sale can be characterized only as infamous. (Applause) No nation on the forces. country as a rule have been corrupt and were subject to purchase and sale can be characterized only as infamous. (Applause.) No nation on the face of the earth ever had a purer set of legislators than have been in the Congresses of this country during its existence. There sit before me several members of Congress who have served with me in several Congresses, and I appeal to each and every one of them if, during their entire service, they ever saw or mistrusted that money was being used to purchase the members of Congress. I served six years without ever knowing that any instance of that kind had occurred during the Congresses in which I served. When men start out with the proposition that in order to prove their case they must also prove that the majority of the best men of this country are thieves and scoundrels they had better stop before they began. (Applause.) The people of this country, and the Congressman is no exception, as an average are upright; honest business men, and admit that Judge Sherman was guilty of a crime that was never in any way connected with his brother, John Sherman, and you know it. They exonerated him. you know it. They exonerated him. Harvey. Did they impeach Judge

Harvey. Did they impeach Judge Sherman?

Horr. Judge Sherman resigned Immediately. They drove him from the bench. (Applause.) The public opinion of this country would not permit a man to hold a public position who would do a thing of that kind. But what has that to do with the question whether Mr. Knox openly and squarely presented this bill to Congress. Mr. Knox said himself: "The coinage of the silver-dollar piece, the history of which is here given, is discontinued in the proposed bill. It is by law the dollar unit. The present gold-dollar piece is made the dollar unit in the proposed bill."

plece is made the dollar unit in the pro-posed bill."

Harvey. When was that written?

Horr. Just before it was sent to Con-gress in 1870. It was a part of the re-port that Secretary Boutwell sent to the Senate in the spring of 1870. It ac-companied the bill, and was printed in the public document as being an ex-planation of the bill by order of the Senate. Is there anything hidden in those statements?

planation of the bill by order of the Senate. Is there anything hidden in those statements?

Harvey. Among the many charges of corruption made at this period, 1873, there was one of significance when we consider that silver was demonetized by a single sentence being omitted from the report of the Conference Committee and enrollment of the mint bill, and indicates the power in this instance, a corrupt clerk could have exercised. George A. Bassett, clerk of the Ways and Means Committee, 1873, was charged with having demanded $250 per month from the bankers and brokers of New York to assist them in repealing the tax on borrowed capital, and $5000 when the act was passed. The Chicago Tribune of February 21, 1873, the very month in which silver was demonetized, said: "Turkish corruption under the pashas and beys or Russian official rottenness could scarcely be worse than it is here." (Applause.) The Salary Grab Bill passed on March 3, 1873. The people rose en masse and forced Congress to repeal this bill, little dreaming at that time that another bill had passed at that Congress that was to rob them of millions of dollars. The people understand a salary grab, but they could not understand a scientific spollation of their rights. (Applause.) To make plain how the fraud was practiced. I copy into my remarks sec. 15 and 16 of the bill supposed Horr. By whom? What proof have you that anything was erased?

Harvey. I'll got the proof for that a little later. The standard silver dollar was fraudulently omitted after the bill had passed both houses. It will be questioned by our best citizens that such a fraud could be practiced and the hesitancy with which they accept its truth attests the integrity of our citizenship. Before offering my proof, and I promise you it shall be conclusive, I wish to speak of official crimes.

clusive, I wish to speak of official crimes.

Harvey then quoted Judge Kelly, chairman of the committee reporting the bill, to show that in 1873 this Juntry was not using coin, and that welther house appreciated the scope and magnitude of the bill, or to have given it political study, particularly as it was a bill to reorganize the mints, not to revise the coin money of the country. Secretary of War Belknap committed a crime and confessed it. The percentage of those who onfess to those who are otherwise found guilty and punished is probably not to exceed 1 per cent., and only a small proportion of those corrupted are ever arraigned. A few years ago, within our own recollection, he said, a few prominent members of the Legislature of France were found guilty and sentenced to punishment for accepting bribes to consistency.

members of the Legislature of France were found guilty and sentenced to punishment for accepting bribes to control the votes in connection with the construction of the Panama Canal. No people are naturally more tenacious of their liberties than the Irish, yethrough the efforts of the unscrupulous diplomat, Lord Castlereagh, English gold, supplemented by royalty's gifts of titles, purchased the dissolution of the Irish Parliament.

Horr. Mr. Harvey still continues to rest his case upon an attempt to prove that the human family is made up of scoundrels; that there is no such thing as honor among the people of this or any other country. The infamous statement that every man has his price ought to be branded upon the brow of every man who will quote it in earnest, because it is a lle against humanity. (Long-continued applause.) And it is equalled only by the other statement that there is no such thing as virtue among the women of the United States of any other country.

Harvey, I don't make that statement.

say to you in all candor, the members of Congress are fully up in honesty and decency to the average of the American speople. But what has all that to do with whether this bill was properly presented and discussed?

After some further discussion, the debate closed for the day. In replying to the large assortment of questions put to thorr and Harvey by the audience, the most interesting colloquy, perhaps, was at the very end of the day's proceedings. This conundrum was put by L. C. Power of Michigan:

"You said yesterday: 'My answer is first, that I did not say that I had forced them to change it or to correct any mistake.' In 'Coin's Financial School, Up to Date,' page 157, you say: 'Coin here explains how an error had crept into the official eyes of the treasurer; that he had since forced the treasury department to correct that error.'

Please explain the manifest discrepancy."

Please explain the manifest discrepancy."

Harvey. The answer is, "Coin." a little boy in knee pants, represents the cause of bimetallism; he does not represent me. (Applause and groans on each side of the house respectively.) I would not have the egotism to claim that I represent "Coin" in the many arguments and sentiments and kind things said about the little boy by the author, and when "Coin"s, influence is exercised at Washlagton and San Francisco and Memphis, it means the influence exercised at washington and San Fran cisco and Memphis, it means the influ ence of bimetallism and humanity. On the request of Horr, the furthe hearing of the debate was adjourned t 1 o'clock Saturday.

HOW IT ORIGINATED.

Correspondence Leading Up to the Horr-Harvey Debate.

For the purpose of making clear to the readers of The Times the plan on which the joint debate between Ex-Congressman Horr and W. H. Harvey was arranged, the following correspondence between prominent Chicago citizens, members of the Illinois Club, and Harmembers of the Illinois Club, and Harvey, is now printed:

CHICAGO, May 18, 1895.

To Mr. W. H. Harvey, author of "Coin's Financial School," City: The undersigned, believing that the usual method of public debate, wherein disputants indulge largely in alternate set speeches, is far from being satisfactory or convincing to the average reader or suditor, and believing further that in a question involving the monetary system of the United States, where the interests of all people are so largely concerned, it is important to reach the truth in the most direct and convincconcerned, it is important to reach the truth in the most direct and convincing manner, stripped of all romance or rhetoric, do hereby invite you as one of the most prominent exponents of the free-coinage idea in this country, to meet the Hon. Said discussion to be based upon the propositions laid down in "Coin's Financial School," the rules governing the same and all the details to be arranged by yourself and Mr. Horr later. (Signed) E. To Messrs. E. S. Dreyer, J. J. P. Odell,
John R. Walsh and others, Chicago, Ill.—Gentlemen: I am in receipt of your communication of the 18th inst., which on account of press of business has not heretofore received my attention and careful consideration.

You invite a discussion by your challenge covering the facts land down in "Coin's Financial School." In view of the fact that the gold-standard press of the country have charged that the cardinal facts stated in "Coin's Financial School" are false, misleading and untrue, and knowing as I do that they are true, it would probably be of great henefit in the educational campaign now in progress were this question settled.
If the facts in said book are true, and the people should be convinced that they are true, then I have no doubt but it would lead to the conversion of all the people, including yourselves, to the truths of bimetallism and its value to this country.

With a view, therefore, to sustaining the facts set forth in said book, and

Hon. Roswell G. Horr, to take place before a stenographer in the manner which you have indicated, provided rules can be agreed upon that will protect me from misquotations, and where we can read our own proof in print of what we say and the authorities used before giving to the public.

And for the purpose of determining whether we can agree upon suitable rules governing us in case said debate takes place, I name Mr. H. S. Taylor of this city as my next friend and representative to meet such representative as you or Mr. Hour may appoint to consult in regard to the same. Respectfully, fully,

W. H. HARVEY.
The Reception Committee of the Illinois Club, in its public announcement of the debate on July 12, said:

A report of each session will be taken down by a stenographer and given to the press daily. The disputants will take the affirmative and negative at pleasure, and neither will talk longer than ten minutes at any one time, the discussion thus being a running fight at close range, giving no chance to dodge any question or issue. The Committee on Arrangements consists of Henry G. Miller, W. A. Vincent, F. J. Schulte, Howard S. Taylor, George R. Peck, Azel F. Hatch, George E. Bowen, Ralph M. Easley. CHICAGO, July 18.—The Executive Committee appointed by the recent silver convention at Memphis met in conference here today with members of the Bimetallic League, Congressman being chairman. It is expected that another meeting will be held tomorrow. Among those preent were. J. R. Goodwin of Memphis, Charles Coffin of Arkansas, J. O. Ralphsnyder of West Virginia, Secretary Ackler of Nashville, Gen. A. J. Warner of Ohio, A. W. Rucker of Colorado, ex-Judge H. W. Miller of Chicago. GEORGIA'S FREE-SILVER CONVEN-

He said that he came to the meeting as a Democrat, "in Democratic harhess, and by the authority of a settled creed, to advocate Democratic principles as old and as sound as the great national party."

and as sound as the great national party."

Sherman's law of 1873, he said was such a death blow to silver as a money metal that it seemed marvelous that silver had enough life left to take up its bed and walk, but, he said, "it is moving to the front with uplifted head and vigorous step, again in union if not in full harmony with gold, and the parade is so inspiring that even Great Britain is keeping step to the music of the union."

Britain is keeping step to the music of the union."

Of Secretary Carlisle the Senator said that he was not chosen as a Cabinet officer until he changed his front on the silver question. His conversion was not like that of Paul, who espoused error, was made blind, then saw the truth and embraced it; but like that of Aaron, who saw the truth, became blinded to it and espoused the darkness of Egypt typified in the golden calf. Senator Morgan said the recent contract for the sale of bonds was without the precedent of justification. He combated what he termed the "false issue invented by Sherman and adopted by Cleveland," that it is the duty of the government to preserve parity between metals, by, adjusting their coinage to meet the fluctuations in the commercial value of $100,000,000 gold reserve. He said: "It is a sort of jackpot put up by Sherman that has kept up gambling in our money. It was never needed to give strength to the United States. The country that has paid in debts and interest more than $3,000,000,000 in thirty years could not need $100,000,000 in thirty years could not need $100,000,000 in thorty credit."

The resolution concluded with the denunciation of the present ad-ministration for having "deserted the Democratic platform." Wild applause Democratic platform." Wild applause followed the reading of the resolution, but some discussion arose, as it was thought best by some to ignore the administration. Under a point of order the resolution was tabled, as it had not been to the Resolutions Committee.

The convention ended with speeches by Congressman Livingston, Clark Howell and others.

The people of the latter city are most earnest and persistent."

NOT LIKE BENJAMIN. SYRACUSE (N. Y.,) July 18.-Maj. T. SYRACUSE (N. Y.,) July 18.—Maj. T. L. Poole said today concerning the report that Gen. Harrison said to Joseph Sayles and himself that he would under no circumstances be a candidate for the Presidency again. "The story is made absolutely out of cloth. Harrison never spoke or even hinted at such a matter."

ONE ON THE MAJOR. SYRACUSE, (N. Y.,) July 18.—A special to the Post from Old Forge, N. Y., says: "That Gen. Harrison made the statement attributed to him in the dispatches of yesterday cannot be denied trathfully by the parties to the coveration. The language he used was given verbatim and was told to at least seven persons, whose names are known to the Post correspondent.

"In his denial Maj. Poole says he did not tell anyone that Gen. Harrison had said that he would not be a candidate for the Fresidency. As a matter of fact, Maj. Poole, after he and his friends had boarded the steamer at Zip on their way to the Forge House from Dodd's Camp, called them around him and confided to them the result of the interview which he and Joseph I. Sayles had with Gen. Harrison. He also told them not to state the conversation to any newspaper men. He laid particular stress upon this. Aelieforts to have Mr. Sayles talk for publication about the interview he and Maj. Poole had with Gen. Harrison were fruitless."

The Post reporter rode to Dodd's Camp this evening. Gen. Harrison was reading his mail. He greeted the reporter cordially and inquired what the nature of the call was.

"What, if anything, have you to say about the story published this morning?" he was asked.

"I have nothing to say about the story," answered the general, pleasantly, but firmly.

"Will you not deny nor affirm the truth of the Poole interview?"

"I will not," Gen. Harrison said. He said that all efforts to have him talk through a newspaper on anything of a political nature, would prove in vain.

ORATORY FOR THE COUNTRY, WASHINGTON, July 18.—Senator Faulkner, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, is to be sent to the Northwest under the auspices of the committee, for the purpose of discussing the Presidency question.

"I have written Mr. Hazzard, who was said to have initiated the movement for a tour," said the Senator, "telling him that the Congress Committee could have nothing to do with the scheme. There is no campaign this year, and the committee does not feel called on to send orators through the country to discuss any question. If any desire to go out as individuals and address the people, that is another matter, they have a perfect right to do so, but it is not proper that the name of the Congress Committee should be used by the party as proposed."

A special to the Bee from Pender says that the injunction restraining Capt. Beck from evicting settlers on the Winnabago reservation was served, on him today by Sheriff Mullin by leaving the order at Beck's office, he being in Sioux City. The writ was also served on the two leaders of the police. Today there have been no evictions, the Indian police waiting for Beck's return. If he should ignore the order there will be bloodshed. Guns and cartridges sent for arrived this evening, and 200 deputies can be armed at a moment's notice. (REGULAR' ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) SARATOGA (N. Y.,) July 18.—There was a fitting climax to an afternoon of most spirited sport when the crimson-soarfed backs of the Bohemians of New York swung their skiff across the finish line after the hardest-pulled eight-oared race on record. All of the other contests had been well rowed and most of them hotly contested. But one fluke had marred the programme, a foul in the final senior singles for which Hackett of Toronto was disqual-ified, and because of which the race must be called again tomorrow. The weather could not have been more weather could not have been more favorable for rowing, marring a rather stiff breeze at times, which made the water choppy, while the crowd was larger than on the preceding day.

In the senior doubles, the Harlems caught the water first. The Torontog rowed 38, Rat Portage 40 and the Harlems and Rat Portage were on almost equal terms. The latter spurted, but the New Yorkers were game and crossed the line half a length ahead, Hawkins dropping over into the boat exhausted, while Nagle splashed him with water. The Torontos were about four lengths behind in crossing third; time 8:43.

All three crews started in the intermediate singles. Jury crossed the line fully five lengths ahead of Isher, who had pulled half a length ahead of Hobs; time 10:40.

In the intermediate doubles the Harlems caught the water first and pulled two lengths ahead before the eighth mile was reached, rowing 38 strokes to the Crescents 37 and the Institute's 39. At the stake the Crescents turned first, with the Harlem's close in their wake, and Institutes increased their stroke, but the Crescents worked hard and came across three-fourths of a length ahead, winning in 3:24%.

In the senior four-oared shells, but two crews, the Winnipegs and Institutes, started. Winnipeg caught the water first, rowing a 40 stroke to the 39 of the Institute, in the last eighth the Institutes captured the angle and swept across the line, despite the terrific 44-stroke of Winnipegs, a scant five feet ahead; time 8:43%.

Senior singles: McDowell caught the water first, Rumohr was pulling a stroke of 38, while his opponents were at 36. At the eighth Rumohr had half a length lead over Hackett, and, a quarter over McDowell. The men were wide of their stakes, and had to make long detours. Rumohr and Hackett started to turn the same flag, and the former, seeing his fault, crossed to his own stake. Hackett fouled him and put a hole in his boat and Rumohr went ashore. McDowell, meantime, was well started on his way home, with Hackett and ordered the race rowed over by McDowell and Rumohr tomorrow.

Senior eight-oared shells: It was ten minutes after the schedule time when the crews started. The Tritons were rowing 40 to the Minnesota's 39 and the First Bohemians' 42. At the half-mile it was a glorious race. Alt the crews the requirements had a lead of but slight consequence. At the three-quarters the Minnesota's had dropped a little behind, while the Tritons had forged ahead. Their little coxswain was steering a course as straight as an arrow, but the coxswain of the Minnesota's had dropped a little behind, while the Tritons had forged ahead.

the air, and, with but a scant quarter

There was a rumor current tonight that there had been a recount in West Leeds today giving Col: North a majority over Rt. Hon. Herbert Gladstone. The rumor was, however, unconfirmed. The defeat of Morley has caused a great sensation throughout Great Britain. After the result of the election was announced today, Morley, in a speech at Newcastle, said: "This is one of the most tremendous battles fought in any British constituency, and I greatly regret that we have been defeated, but we have shown that we know how to bear defeat with cheerful courage." DENVER (Col.,) July 18.—A special to the Republican from Santa Fe, N. The latter says that his brother has valuable landed interests in Mexico just south of Nogales, and for years past certain Mexicans have undertaken to get control of this land. It is possible, he thinks, that his brother was not implicated in the robbery, but that his name was conveniently coupled with it by influential Mexicans in order to get him out of the way.

The Times will say tomorrow that Stambouloff was one of the most that Stambouloff was one of the most brilliant statesmen produced in the Balkans in the last century. With lit-tle of the veneer of civilization, with little distinction or refinement, he con-cealed beneath a rough exterior a nat-ural tenderness and delicacy of feel-ing which only those who knew him could appreciate. There was no hum-bug or affectation about him. He was a man, and a great man. Whatever his defects may have been, there was never a doubt of his patriotism and devotion to his country.

today that Prince Ferdinand had abdicated the rulership of Bulgaria, and that the government had sent a circular to the powers on the subject of Bulgaria. The reports, though they affected the money markets, were given no credence elsewhere. I am informed, on good authority, that the murder of Stambouloff will probably not lead to the intervention of the powers. It is believed that the Russian influence will begin to make increasing way in Bulgaria.

The Vossische Zietung says that curses and everlasting shame will cling to the Bulgarian government, which certainly had a share in the assasination, and which knew of the murderous plots, yet did nothing to hinder notorious murderers from moving freely about Sofia. If any ordinary citizen, the newspaper goes on to say, had been incriminated as Prince Ferdinand has been, he would have been arrested. Prince Ferdinand has forfeited the right to wear a European crown. He must fall.

The National Zeftung sas that the name of Bulgaria will henceforth be expressive only of the most contemptible ingratitude, and the most pitful deprayity. This monstrosity called a State cannot live.

The suit in question is that by which the four alleged mutineers of the Arago, who are now in the Alameda Jall, seek their liberty on the ground that they are imprisoned under an old English law, copied almost bodily into the Federal statutes in 1790, a law which it is alleged is contrary to the genius of American institutions and to the whole spirit of modern civilization. It involves the rights of masters over servants, and back of it is a contest between employers and employees, a contest the result of which will settle the status of nearly one hundred thousand sailors in America.

The mutineers allege that there is no validity nor justice in the statute which confers on United States marshals and other officers the right to arrest them for refusing to do duty as sailors. They allege that such a statute is tyrannical and unjust, and that it is an unlawful discrimination against one class of the population, since men in other gainful occupations cannot be imprisoned, fined, impressed and coerced into service for failure to comply with their contracts. The shippers, on the contrary, allege that without some such restraint as the law imposes, Byron's "Dream of Darkness," wherein ships, sailorless and rotting on the seas, would soon be realized; that the American flag would soon be driven from the sea in the era of chaos and pandemonium that would ensue.

It is the first time in American history that a court has been called upon to overthrow the admiratty and shipping laws that, copied from ancient English tomes, have held undisputed sway over the men who follow the sea for unbroken generations.

FLASHES FROM THE WIRES.

A Springfield dispatch says that, contrary to reports on the Pacific Coast, no Anne Grey habeen killed by electric cars there.

A Boston dispatch says that John T. Ellis, well-known newspaper correspondent, who felon Tuesday and fractured his skull, died yes of the Potter-Lovell Company of Boston for the recovery of $12,830,000 of bonds said to have been fraudulently conveyed, was a bit of absolute nonsense. The bonds, he said, were conveyed a year before the Boston company falled, and are as worthless as was the paper. Farwell stated that he had told the plaintiff's attorney before the filing of the suit that if they would furnish an express-wagon he would turn over to them the $12,00,000 worth of paper with pleasure.

A Philadelphia dispatch says that, following close on the saie by the Lehigh Coal Company of over $6,000,000 bonds in London, comes the official announcement of a similar transaction by the Lehigh Coal Tompany, which has sold to Brown Bros. & Co. of Philadelphia, the American branch of the foreign house that took Wednesday's big issue, $1,000,000 collateral trust bonds, bearing interest at $45 per cent, and redeemable in ten years in gold. The bonds were sold at par and accrued in Hquidation of the floating indebtedness. The remainder will be expended in equipments.

Novel.

(Harper's Round Table:) His first important novel, "The Spy," was founded upon a story which Cooper had heard many years before, and which had made a profound impression upon him. It was the story of a veritable spy, who had been in the service of one of the revolutionary leaders, and whose daring and heroic adventures were related to Cooper by the man who had employed him.

Cooper took this old spy for his hero, kept the scene in Westchester, where the man had really performed his wonderful feats, and from these facts wove the most thrilling and vital piece of fiction that had appeared in America.

The novel appeared in December, 1821, and in a few months at was apparent that a new star had risen in the literary skies. The book made Cooper famous, both in America and Europe. It was published in England by the same publisher who had brought out Irving's "Sketchbook," and it met with a success that spoke highly for its merit, since the story was one telling of English defeat and American triumph. It was put into French by the translator of the Waverley novels, and before long versions of it appeared in every tongue in Europe. It was regarded not merely as a tale of advanture in a new department of story-telling, but it was generally conceded to be a fine place of fitch in itself, and its hero, Harvey Birch, won, and has kept for himself, a place hardly second to any creation of literature.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) LONDON, July 18.—(By Atlantic Cable.) Inquiries made in this city by a representative of the Associated Press regarding the statement of Hermann Mudgetts, alias H. H. Holmes, alias H. H. Howard, suspected of having mur-dered the two Pitzel girls at Toronto phia, indicate that he did not tell the truth when he informed Dist.-Atty.

Graham of Philadelphia that the children were taken to England by the Williams woman.
According to a dispatch just received According to a dispatch just received here, according to a dispatch just received the girls into the keeping of Minnie Williams, who came to the city from New York and established a massage resort at No. 8 Veder or Vedar street. She also said that she was known here as Minnie Williams, Geraldine Wonder or Andel Covelle, but the inquiries made show that there is no Vedar or Veder street in London, and when Vigo and Verests, the nearest names to those mentioned by Holmes, were searched, no trace was found of a woman or an establishment answering the description of that referred to by the prisoner.

MRS. PITZEL TALKS.

MRS. PITZEL TALKS. CHICAGO, July 18 .- Mrs. Pitzel, wh left last night for Toronto to identify the bodies of the two children found in the cellar of the house at No. 16 St.
Vincent street, talked about her past life and her husband's dealings with Holmes just before leaving. Mrs. Pitzel is broken in health and minJ, the victim, she believes of a hypnotic influence exerted by Holmes. Her story was straightforwardly told, and it is impossible to believe, after being any length of time in her company, that she was either a confederate or accomplice of Holmes in the commission of any of his rimes. "Holmes, whom I had met but once before the death of my husband," said Mrs. Pitzel, "seemed from the time he asked me for the care of the children until his final arrest, to have a peculiar influence over me. I felt controlled by him. He had an influence over me that him. He had an influence over me that I though then to be natural, since he had been the intimate friend of my husband. Besides, my husband had repeatedly told me that I could trust him; that he was a good man, and that he would always be true to us. The chidren idolized him. There was nothing that he could not do with them. Again dren idolized him. There was nothing that he could not do with them. Again and again my husband told me how much he thought of Holmes, and how honorable he was, until I came to the same opinion myself, although at first I did not like the man, and told my husband so, and begged him to have nothing to do with him.

"I saw my husband last on August 14, 1894. He had gone to St. Lquis. Fie was then heavily interested with Holmes in whatever the enterprises were they had on together, and I was lying sick with my baby. I was very sick. I could not go to Philadelphia to identify the body which they suspected to be that of my husband. I could not be moved. Holmes came to me undalice was taken east and she identified the body. It was after that that Holmes told me that the body was not that of my husband; that it was a bogus body made to look like him, and if I or the children said anything about it the insurance company would gebelded as and we would be punised.

he said was found in Philadelphia. He said Pitzel was still alive, and that I would see him again when this trouble was over. He wished, though, to save us from arrest, and after the three children were gone I moved about the country. I had to worry about the children. I wanted to see them, and wished to know where they were. Holmes always put me off, with the story that I must keep quiet until the detectives stopped their work.

"When he took me to Detroit it was he who registered me there as Mrs. Adams. He told me that when he came up to the room where Dessie, my oldest daughter, and I were. I told him that he did wrong to put down my name wrong, but he explained that the detectives must be kept off the track, and that I was protecting my husband by this. I finally heard that the children were at Toronto, and Dessie, I and the baby went there at once to search, but without success.

"Since then I have been working for the location of the children with District Attorney Graham of Philadelphia, Mr. Geyer, the detective of Philadelphia, and the officers of the life insurance have done all in their power to aid me. You must understand that when my children were first really missing, I was locked up and could not communicate with anyone. I was not allowed to see the newspapers nor to receive mail. In Holmes's trunk there was found a letter from my daughter Alice to me which never reached me, showing that my mail was intercepted. Since I have had my freedom, the Philadelphia authorities and the insurance company have worked to bring my children back to me, and I have aided them so far as I could.

"When I gave the children up to Holmes in St. Leuis I was too sick, and trusted him too much to pay careful attention to what I did. He told me to go home to recruit there with my parents, and he would keep the children in school. When he took me to Detroit, and I supposed we were being hounded by detectives, Holmes paid most of the bills. Sometimes I was compelled to pay my own expenses. I believe Holmes intended to kill

COOL DAYS ON A MOUNTAIN TOP. Idylwilde Camp, in the San Jacinto Mountains-An Ideal Resort.

(From a Correspondent of The Times.)
Ho! you down there in the hot and dusty towns; would I could send you down a few delicious breezes from this pine-scented mountain top! You'd endown a few delicious breezes from this pine-scented mountain top! You'd enjoy them hugely, I am sure of that, for instilled into the sweet air is the odor of wild pennyroyal and peppermint, fragrant ferns, wild roses and lilies, and balsamic pine. The pleasure to your olfactories, from these stray breezes would settle your mind at once, and you would hie yourself to Idylwilde Camp in the San Jacinto Mountains on the first train due south. You would find the trip a very pleasant one, full of the novelties of a journey into the country and up a mountain grade. Suppose you leave Los Angeles some of these fine warm mornings when orange phosphates and ice cream sodas have lost their cooling properties, and life generally seems full of depressing drawbacks. You will buy a ticket at La Grande Depot for San Jacinto, a matter of $3.50, and you bustle into the train with a huge "grip" filled with substantial mountain clothes, a gaily-colored hammock strapped thereto, and a separate package of the latest literature of the day, of the lightest and sleepiest kind purchaseable. It is also an excellent plan to have the Times mailed regularly to your Idylwilde address, the postoffice up here being called Rayneta, with a mail service arriving eyery day. After a remarkably hot and uncomfortable ride you will arrive at 4 neta, with a mail service arriving eyery day. After a remarkably hot and uncomfortable ride you will arrive at 4 p.m. at San Jacinto in the eastern corner of Riverside county. Here you will find hotel accommodations in a thriving town of 3000 inhabitants. The next morning if it is Tuesday, Thursday or Saturday, you can engage passage in the mountain stage, the round trip being only $3. Once aboard this easy three-seater behind four prancing steeds, the hour being 6 a.m., you feel a pleasant exhilaration stealing over you. The morning air is cool and bracing, the

Idylewilde Camp entertains two or three hundred campers every year, and the number is steadily growing. If it were situated closer to Los Angeles thousands would seek these cool, healthful valleys. But there is always the isolated position and elevation, 6000 crowds away. Still, this very fact renders Idylewilde a desirable resort for those wishing rest and recuperation. If

The issuance of $100,000 of bonds of the Escondido irrigation district has been approved by Judge Torrance of San Diego.

PASADENA SCHOOL BONDS. These bonds, consisting of 3-10 5's for $40,-000 were today awarded to Hellman & Sartori of Los Angeles. Their bid was $42,856, and with it was inclosed a certified check on the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Los Angeles for $1000. There were seven other firms who bid for the bonds, the next highest to that of Hellman & Sartori being that of N. W. Harris & Co. of New York, who offered to take them at par with accrued interest and $2775 premium.

COMMERCIAL.

A NEW RAISIN COMBINE. The poor success which has attended the marketing of the raisin crop of Calimarketing of the raisin crop of California during the last two years has spurred some of the Fresno county growers to see if some plan could not be devised whereby the competition letween growers, resulting in the inconsiderate dumping of large lots of raisins on the Eastern markets could not be avoided. This dumping process has been the main cause of all the trouble. Growers, instead of working in harmony, made separate consignments of their goods to different Eastern brokers. These latter, desirous of making returns, would cut prices to make a sale. The result was that large lots of raisins were thrown on the market at a time when the market had no use for them, It became evident that such ill-considered measures would, if persisted in, bring ruin on the California raisin-grower.

ange crop. This move on the part of the raisin men was suggested in The Times in an article published in this column on June 25 last, and it is satis-factory to note that the advice therein given has been acted on.

actory to note that the advice thereingiven has been acted on.

CONSUMPTION OF RAISINS. The consumption of raisins in the United States and Canada during the year 1894 has been figured out to be 108,000,000 pounds, small figures omitted. Of this quantity 15,000,000 pounds come from Spain, 5,000,000 pounds from other European countries, and the balance, 88,000,000 pounds, were produced in California. These latter figures are probably excessive. Information received from the representative in Los Angeles of one of the leading shipping firms in the United States places the shipments of California raisins last year to Eastern points at from 48,000,000 to 50,000,000 pounds. In addition to these shipments there was a carry-over to this year, 1895, of about one million pounds. Adding the shipments to the East, say 50,000,000 pounds, to the 1,000,000 pounds carried over, there would remain of the California product, 37,000,000 pounds as having been consumed last year in the Pacific Coast States and Territories. It is not likely that any such quantity was consumed, as it represents one-third of the entire production of California and importations combined. It would be much safer and nearer the mark to place the entire quantity produced last year in California at 56,000,000 pounds of raisins consumed in the United States and Canada last year, being, say about one pound per capita.

This is not a large consumption. This is not a large consumption. This is not a large consumption fraisins will continue to be steady and increasing. The facts given here will, however, be a good basis for raisins given to figure on, as it will help them to better regulate the supply in accordance with the demand.

A NEW PEACH PITTER. Up to the present time the clingstone peach

A NEW PEACH PITTER. Up to the present time the clingstone peach has been one of the terrors of the peach-dryer owing to the difficulty of extracting the pit, and the great waste of fruit. That difficulty is now said to have been overcome. A machine simple in construction, called the clingstone peach pitter, has been invented, which cuts the peach and pit square in the middle and then removes the half-pits by what are called the pit-extractors. The invention is a novel one and will prove beneficial by effecting a saving in labor and of fruit.

THE TRADE REVIEW. With its issue tomorrow the California Trade Review, published in this city, will enter on its seventh volume. The Review was established to assist in making known the resources of Southern California and to promote the mercantile interests of this section of the State. That it has been largely successful in doing so is well proven by the patronage extended to it.

Gold from New York.

NEW YORK, July 18.—A report was circulated in Wall street today to the effect that a large amount of gold, some had it $1,000,000, would be exported this week by a prominent importing firm. The house meant is W. H. Crossman & Bros. of Broad street, who, upon being interviewed, stated that they had not as yet fully determined whether or not they should make a shipment of gold. It depended entirely upon the rates of exchange at which they could buy bills. If it was to their advantage to send the gold forward instead of buying exchange, they would do so. Gold to the amount of $100,000 was placed on board the steamer Etruria today for shipment on Saturday next by Nessiage, Colgate & Co.

Grain and Produce.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

CHICAGO, July 18.—Wheat opened at from 1611/4c under yesterday's close. The Weather Bureau's prediction of frost in the Northwest was not realized, and the Cincinnati Price Current declared the spring wheat condition very high. The foreign markets were all lower. Trade was narrow and was influenced by comparatively small transactions. Later the market became firm and gradually worked up into an appearance of actual strength, because of covering by shorts, but there was also some buying for the long account on a still remaining probability of frosts before tomorrow morning in the Northwest and by reported storms there this morning, which had laid out the crops over a length of sixty-five miles. September closed Ic lower. Corn was weak at the opening under the influence of favorable weather for the growing crop, and recovered later on the development of a demand for cash corn. September closed Ic lower. At the opening oats had a comparatively firm tone. Later on, offerings were more than liberal and came from a great many different individuals, principally stop-orders. September started at 22%, sold to 23, down to 22½, and closed at 22½ bid. %c lower than yesterday. At the close pork was 12½ higher, lard 56 higher and ribs 2½c higher.

"From every quarter of the country, East, West, North and South, come the tidings of a revived business and increased commercial prosperity. Nor is it in one line only, but in all. The products of the farm and of the mine, of the plantation and of the mil have all gone hand-in-hand toward higher prices, and all the pulses of trade are beating with accelerated force. Money, the heaveneter of burdens is routely the barometer of business, is rapidly being withdrawn from its hiding places, and seeking investment in safe enterprises and adventures, and confidence is daily being restored. The advance of wages in the manufacturing industries is becoming so common a no longer to create surprise at the announcement. The cotton-mills of the South are not only paying better wages than before, but are enlarging their force and capacity at the same time, and new mills are being built in Arkansas and Louisiana. In Alabama and Tennessee the coal and iron trades are on a better footing than in past years, and in one county alone of Alabama the coal output for this year will exceed the whole product of the State for 1894. Here in Chicago the Illinois Steel Company has advanced wages per cent., which affects some 7000 employees, while its busines has so increased that the contracts now made cover all the product it can manufac ture in the next three months. The Pittsburgh district shows the same condition of affairs, of increased wages and enlarged output, while at Port Chester N. Y., the bolt and nut works are run tries may also be noted in the pottery manufacture. At Wheeling and a Trenton wages have been advanced from 10 to 40 per cent., and the capacity of the works has been greatly enlarged. Such indications as these are unmistakable. After two years and a half of depression the load is lifted and good times have come again."

WHICH POLICY IS BEST?

It appears from the census that there were 252,148 manufactur ing establishments in the United States in 1870, and that the number had in creased in 1890 to 355,114, or an inin twenty years of 102,966 establishments. This remarkable growth, let it be remembered, was acpolicy of tariff protection to home in How was it with England during this period? England was and is under a free-trade policy. The history of her industries during the period who American industries made so excellent and satifactory a growth should furnish a fair index of the relative merits of these two radically differing sys tems of political and governmental economy. For the purpose of compar ing results, the American Economist has compiled a table showing the num ber of factories in some of the leading industries of Great Britain in the years 1874 and 1890, respectively. The figures are interesting, as the sixteen year English period corresponds closely with the twenty-year American period.

The thore is the follows.
A Principal of the Control of the Co	1874	18
Textile	7,294	7.1
Cotton	2,655	2.5
Woolen	1,800	1,7
Shoddy	125	1
Flax and hemp	510	4
Silk	818	6

In other words, there were in the United Kingdom 104 less textile manufacturing establishments in 1890 than in 1874, 117 less cotton factories, 7 less woolen factories, 58 less bemp and flax factories, 195 less silk factories, and 36 less elastic factories. The only indus try in the list that held its own was that of shoddy. In either case he has not much time to devote to real as not much time to devote to estate matters, and consequently agents complain more or less of dull business. Still, the amount of business that is done in real estate from day to day is greater than that which was transacted during the busy season of the years from '88 to '92.

THE OUTLOOK FOR NEXT WIN-

The prospect for a first-class trade during the coming winter continues to be excellent. There is every indication that the incursion of Easterners will be greater than it has been at any time since the boom. From advices that are received from the East by many of our since the boom. From advices that are received from the East by many of our real estate agents and others, it is certain that a large proportion of these people will become permanent residents of Southern California. Quite a large number of Eastern people are in Los Angeles at present, some of them quietly looking around for investments or homes. Most of these people are surprised to find that we have so pleasant a summer climate. There are a great many people in the East who have been waiting to dispose of their property previous to coming this way. The recent improvement in business throughout the East enabled a good many of them to do so, and Southern California will thus reap a double advantage from the general improvement which appears to have set in throughout the country, firstly by getting a proportionate share of the general in crease in prosperity, and secondly by receiving a large accession of Eastern people with some means.

SOUTH BROADWAY South Broadway maintains its hold in the affections of real estate investon the affections of real estate invest-ors, and apparently the further south a ors, and apparently the further south a lot is the better, in the estimation of many of these people. A few days ago $200 a foot was refused for the Hughes lot at the corner of Ninth and Broadway. This is going pretty far out, but, as stated, there are people who are willing to pay more for property on Broadway below Fifth street, than they would give for frontage between First and Second. Thus, during the past week the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church property, on Broadway, between Fifth and Sixth, 80x165 feet, was sold at $450 a foot to a capitalist from Memphis named McCallum.

was sold at $450 a foot to a capitalist from Memphis named McCallum. Property could probably be purchased on Broadway, between First and Second, for the same price.

It is all very well for those who have a long purse and can afford to wait to pay a big price for property so far south, which will undoubtedly become more valuable from year to year, but, as previously stated in The Times, the purchaser must be prepared to wait some time before he can expect to get rents equal to those that are paid on a thoroughfare that is crowded from morning to night, which South Broadway certainly is not at present, nor will it be for some years to come.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

A GOOD INVESTMENT. There is money to be made on North Broadway by any one who will pur chase a cheap lot, say for $250 a foot o chase a cheap lot, say for $250 a foot or thereabouts, and erect a cheap but substantial brick office building. This section of the city is very handy to business, especially to the Courthouse, and and there is no doubt that comfortable offices there would rent readily. Such an investment would for some years to come pay more than twice the interest on the capital invested than could be made from South Broadway property at present prices.

MAIN-STREET PAVING. The paving of Main street to the city limits, for which a bid has been ac-cepted, is the biggest job of the kind cepted, is the biggest job of the kind that has ever been let by the city. The Investor has the following in regard to the material that it is proposed to use, a matter which has aroused a large amount of discussion among property-owners who are interested:

"The bid of the Union Paving Company for paving Main street from Ninth to Thirty-seventh has been properly accepted, being the lowest, and it now remains to see that the work is properly cepted, being the lowest, and it now remains to see that the work is properly done according to the specifications. We understand that for the surfacing, two samples of asphalt have been submitted by the successful bidders, namely one of the "Standard" brand, which is also known as the Bakersfield asphalt, and the other, the "Alcatraz," which is manufactured at the Alcatraz Asphalt Company's works at Carpenteria. We do not know what measures will be taken to determine the relative merits of these rival manufactures. Certain it is that without proper tests no fair conclusion can be arrived at. If, therefore, the results of such tests can be easily seen, a good work may be accomplished and the property-owners protected.

"We therefore cell the attention of

"We, therefore, call the attention of the authorities to some object lessons that may be of assistance in the case: First, the Bakersfield or "Standard" brand of asphalt has been used in the paving of the streets of Visalia, and it is of this asphalt that the Engineer and Contractor speaks of in its issue of June 14, where it says:

"The approach of hot weather has caused the passage of an ordinance in Visalia forbidding the standing of horses in one place on asphalt paved streets for more than thirty consecutive minutes. This is hard on asphalt, and the asphalt men should see that the definance be changed to read that horses will not be allowed to stand on any streets, but must be kept moving all the time."

"The property-owners on Main street the standard of the property-owners on Main street.

all the time. The property-owners on Main street desire no such an experience as the foregoing paragraph indicates is now the lot of Visalia people.

"On the other hand, the Alcatrax asphalt has been used in paving of streets in Pasadena and Pomona, where its excellent condition may be easily studied and appreciated. It has also been used in Santa Ana, with the exception of the paving in the car tracks. We make this statement as to the superior merits of the Alcatrax asphalt in the interest of property-owners, who are concerned property-owners, who are concernat nothing but the best material sed in this contract."

Referring to the projected irrigation of some of the arid lands in the Western States and Territories by the State and Territorial governments, the American Cultivator says:
"The localities where a few individ-uals can combine and cut canals at uals can combine and out canals at slight expense are now to a considerable extent occupied. They all will be in the near future. Where more costly irrigation plants are required it will be a work that will need a long time and will proceed slowly. The available tapital of the Western States is needed in enterprises that pay more immediate profits. We are adding to the population of the country at least a million souls a year. Most of the good lands are already occupied in some fashion, though they are not brought up to the degree of productiveness that they are capable of. The increase of manufacturing now is mainly in better machinery, enabling a saylar activity and the state of the sayling a saylar activity and the sayling a saylin more of the increase of population shall seek a living from the soil. But for many years to come the larger part of these will seek their fortunes on the neglected and abandoned farms in the older States. Most of these are well watered, and can be restored to fertility with much less expense than will be required to brigate lands in the arid West, where there is enough water to make irrigation possible. As the agricultural advantages of the older States become better understood, the current of population and of wealth that has long gone to build up the far West will be turned back to the East. It is just this that is needed to secure the return of prosperity to Eastern farming interests. There is more money today to be made by intelligent cultivation of New England farms, than can be made by investing it in farming in most portions of the West. The best lands there are held at prices quite as high as in New England, and they have not the nearness to markets which enables the farmers there to make a profit from articles that can best be sold at retail by the producer."

It must be supposed that the writer articles that can best be sold at retail by the producer."

It must be supposed that the writer of the above is not very well informed in regard to the capabilities of the arid region when irrigated or he would not dispose of its attractions and future in so off-hand a manner. To any one who knows both sections the "abandoned farms" of the East are not "it" with any of the arid sections of the Rocky Mountain region. Leaving out Rocky Mountain region. Leaving out of all question the climate—the absence other interesting features of the Eastern climate—the value of the products that can be raised on an equal area of land in this section is so much greater than that which can be raised in the East that at an equal price, or at even double the price for the Western land, the advantages are all on one side. The very fact that these New England farms have been abandoned by the previous owners is sufficient proof that it is a difficult matter to make a bare living on them. One does not hear of people abandoning property in the irrigated sections of the West.

CO-OPERATIVE HOME BUILDING. CO-OPERATIVE HOME BUILDING

The facilities for building cheap homes on easy terms have been much increased in Los Angeles during the past couple of years, and it is now ar easy thing for anyone with even a couple of hundred dollars to become the owner of a cottage, paying the balance in easy installments. The San Francisco Examiner recently gave the following interesting account of the manner in which a number of workmen have succeeded in building for themselves cottages at a nominal expense to themselves. Some of our Los Angeles workmen might perhaps take a hint from this example, although there are perhaps some of the "o'er guid" among the country of the propersion some of the "o'er guid" among the some of the "o'er guid" among the propersion some of the propersion some of the propersion of the propersion some of the propersion some of the propersion from this example, although there are perhaps some of the "o'er guid" among us who would object to the performance of such work on the first day of the week. The building of a home may, however, be supposed to come under the head of good works, which are permissable on Sunday:

"Yesterday was a busy day for the carpenters and painters who were out in the Holly Park district. Patrick Hughes moved his furniture and family into his Sunday house, and will pay no rent in the future; Benjamin Hughes was also his own landlord before evening.

No one called time, but all turned to as soon as they arrived. By evening the house was almost completed—the frame was up and most of the rustic in place. "But Hughes was to have a house worthy of a workman, and so several carpenters, who are at present idle, so far as working for money is concerned, had been working all through the week on the building.

"Patrick Hughes is a brother of Ben-Jamin Hughes, and is a peddler. He could not afford lumber for a pretentious house and the home into which he moved yesterday is the most modest on Sigel street. But it is all his own. His house was begun and finished on Sunday, three weeks ago, but sickness prevented him moving in earlier.

"This fact that Mr. Hughes was to move from his old to his new abode becoming known an express wagonwas backed up to the door of the place where rent was paid and willing hands packed the possessisons of the Hughes family into it and conveyed them to the new house. Then Mr. and Mrs. Hughes and two children were expressed to their new home, where a few of the women aided in putting things in order, and before sundown the family was comfortably settled.

"It happened so suddenly that I haven't had time to think yet.' he said yesterday, but it's the best gift I over had in my life," and Mrs. Hughes laughed to avoid crying.

"Altogether there are nine. Sunday houses in the district, and next week there will be ten. The first was built by the members of the Carpentors' Union as a tribute of their respect to their secretary, Harry Meyer, in April. 1891. Meyer has been a carpenter all his life and is an ardent advocate of trades-unionism. Mr. Meyer has bever forgotten that act of kindness, and since the erection of his own house he has been the prime mover in all the building bees that have been supplied with homes. The complete list up to date is as follows:

"Harry Meyer, Charles Flood, William Bell, Thomas O'Neill, John Pierson, George Collins, H. Schusted, Benjamin Hughes, Patrick Hughes.

"All the houses are within three blocks of each other and form a complete colony of Sunday houses. John Sullivan is the next on the list, and his house will be built next Sunday."

DOWN BY THE RIVER.

Owners of property in the neighborhood of the river have been anxiously inquiring what has become of that smelter project, just across the river below high states are several states, which it was stated a couple of months ago was to be revived at once. From inquiries made by The Times it appears that there are several Eastern men of wealth at the back of the proposition, but they do not seem to be taking a very lively interest in the enterprise. The company has bought land from the Terminal company, and paid a deposit of $1500 thereon. An attempt is now being made to sell bonds in order to furnish means for the necessary improvement.

The noteworthy revival which has taken place in the mining industry throughout Southern California during the past few months holds out a prospect of patronage for the smelter without waiting for the construction of the Sait Lake railroad, and it is to be hoped that this, or some other company, will soon complete the much talked-of smelting plant.

Meantime, the remarkable cheapness of petroleum fuel is directing the attention of a good many manufacturers in this direction. As recently mentioned in these columns, there is some talk in San Francisco in regard to the erection of another sugar factory in the neighborhood of Los Angeles. A convenient site for such a factory would be near the river in the neighborhood of the such a factory would be near the river in the neighborhood of the such a factory would be near the river in the neighborhood of the property in this section who have been offering land at very low prices are beginning to realize that there is likely to be a considerable improvement, before long, and several of them have taken their lots off the market.

A NOVELTY IN HOUSE BUILDING The construction of a building that shall be always at a comfortable temshall be always at a comfortable temperature—warmer than the outer air in winter, and colder in summer—has long been a dream of the hygienist. The main trouble has been that the heat is introduced from within, so that the outer walls are always cold in winter and hot in summer. A Frenchman, M. Caron, claims to have solved the problem completely, by making the frame of his house serve as heater and refrigerator, according to season. He builds it of iron tubing, through which water circulates constantly—warm water in winter and cold water in summer—so that he may be said to dwell within a radiator or refrigerator, according to circumstances. His house, which has been actually constructed at Chamouni, is described in La Nature, from which a translation has been made for the Literary Digest.

The building is made of a metallic tubular frame, forming a double envelope. All the floors, cellings and walls intercommunicate: the walls are of wood, made of planks nailed on beams that are joined to the tubing, first in the interior network of ceilings and planks, then in the exterior inclosure. In summer, spring water from the mountains is forced through under pressure; it cools the interior walls, becomes warmed little by little, and then passes into the interior part where the temperature rises still more, intercepting in the process the outer heat. In winter the water passes at first through a heating coil; then following the path just indicated, it gives up its heat first to the inner then to the outer wall. The speed of circulation is so regulated that the water issues from the house with a temperature equal to or less than that of its entry; the heat is thus entirely utilized. The only heat lost, or rather unavailable in the process, is that necessary to do the work of moving the water. M. Caron has, in fact, devised a great low temperature heater, with a yeary large heating surface—about 300 square yards. When this is at work the water enters at 2.5 centigrade, is heated to 65 deg. or 70 deg. and leaves at 4 deg. I perature—warmer than the outer air in winter, and colder in summer—has made by property-owners that they have received no notice of any improvements, and that they knew nothing of the improvements being made. If they watch the official paper they would find the ordinances and notices published that would keep them posted in regard to all improvements made.

The attention of property-owners, on Main street particularly, is called to the ordinances and notices published in the official paper for paving that street as follows: Ordinance of intention No. 285%: notice of street work, published May 20 to 25; notice-inviting street work proposals, published July 1 and 2; and the notice of award of contract that will be published within the next week. These are the official notices published and a careful perusal will assist every one in understanding about the work to be done.

The ticket brokers of Los Angeles have organized a society for their common protection against the machinations of the Southern Pacific passenger department. While the regular passenger agents are vainly endeavoring to make a unanimous agreement to maintain rates and cease business dealings with the scalpers, the latter get together, resolve to maintain rates—their own—and discuss a means of removing some difficulties in the way of their success. They complain of the surveillance of "spotters" in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company, and seek a way to prevent the annoyance to themselves and their customers. The brokers claim that, in the absence of a law interdicting the conduct of their business, their transactions are legal and they are entitled to the protection accorded any other class of business men.

COW CONSUMPTION.

County Stock Inspector Talk

The County Stock Inspector Talks

About Tuberculosis.

"There are two things in the stockraising question that call for imperative and quick action," said Dr. W. B.
Rowland, County Stock Inspector, "the first of which is the testing for tuberculosis of every cow from which milk is used by the citizens of this county and city. This disease exists to an alarming extent in this county. It is well known that it is a contagious disease, but I am not prepared to say that it is infectious. It is claimed by some veterinary surgeons that it is, but I think it is drawing the line too fine to say that it is an infectious disease. It is undoubtedly carried in some instances by the drying-up of the sputum, which is carried by the wind to the nostrils of the cattle, but it can be carried in many other ways. In my experience with the disease I find that the high-bred cattle are the most susceptible to tuberculosis, and a Jersey cow will contract the disease where one of a common herd will not. There is only one absolutely certain test that I know of, and that is to test them by injecting tuberculine under the skin, glving, we will say, about fifteen drops for a dose. This tuberculine is manufactured by the government and is made from the Kooh formula. In every case in which I have used this test it has been successful in demonstrating the fact that the disease is present in the animals affected. The post mortems held have proved the test. Within the past month I have tested thirteen animals in this county, eleven of which were affected and killed. Within the past ten days
I have tested three animals, one near Savannah, one at Pomona and one at Pasadena, all three of which showed the febrile reaction which will be present where the disease is present.

"But one dairy in the county has tested its whole herd. This dairy has thirty-three cows, out of which four were killed. Every dairy should submit the herds to this test, as also should every owner of a cow gliving milk for family use. The tuberculine cos

The franchise for this territory was dvertised for sale several weeks ago; here bids being received in answer to he advertisement. The lowest bidder, ferman de Laguna, raised an objection to the granting the franchise to the highest bidder, Mr. Small, on the trouble that a former franchise had seen granted in the same territory for the same purpose to a Mr. Strange, which franchise he (Mr. Laguna) had purchased.

The Board of Public Works, to whom the matter was referred, took small stock in Mr. Laguna's claim, but decided to refer the matter to the City Attorney for investigation.

That official has discovered in his investigation, while the Strange franchise amounts to nothing, yet there has been a previous franchise granted for this territory to Mr. Cross, who, however, failed to acept it, and forefieted the $100 which he had deposited as his bid. It is the opinion of the City Attorney that the Cross franchise is valid, and he is undecided as to the proper measure which should be taken in view of this fact. It is probable that the time of the Cross franchise will be allowed to expire and that new bids will be advertised for, in which event Mr. Laguna will achieve the desire of his heart—the chance to bid again for the coveted franchise.

net in regular session yesterday morning, Commissioners Cross and Post be erve proceeded to call up the matter of running water into the lake at Hollen-beck Park. A full report was given in The Times of yesterday, concerning the trouble which Mr. Meserve has experienced in procuring the water for this park, the deputy water overseer having refused to allow the water to run on St. Louis street.

The situation was fully explained by ex-Mayor Workman and Superintendent Meserve, the latter stating that the water in the lake had fallen at least ent Meserve, the latter stating that the water in the lake had fallen at least twenty inches since the supply had been shut off.

The Mayor spoke in deprecation of any collision between the departments, and regretted that so much publicity had been given the affair. Mayor Rader finally announced that he would investigate the matter, and ascertain the truth as to the conflicting stories told by the water overseer and the Park Superintendent. The Mayor made his investigation later in the day, in company with the water overseer and reported, finding St. Louis street in very bad shape, deep guilles having been worn in the sides of the road where the water has been allowed to run. The Mayor proposes to recommend to the commission that a pipe be laid from the zanja to the ravine leading to the lake. This pipe can be laid at an expense of about $200, and its constuction would do away with the constant disputes between the park department and the water overseer over the question now at issue.

Action in the bandstand matter at Westlake Park has been deferred for one week, as but one bid was received by the board for the construction of the building.

A FORLORN POSSIBILITY.

What May Occur is the City is Obstionate.

Many and various are the paragraph which have been printed regarding the work of demolishing the old courthouse building. The slowness of the demolshers-their obstruction of the street bounding the building, and the tres passing of the builders upon ground pelonging properly to the city, have been the subject of much remark, com-ment and criticism, the whole matter inally leading to a motion made by a nember of the City Council that "the inally leading to a motion made by a member of the City Council that "the Street Superintendent be instructed to notify the owners of the property to remove such portion of their building as obstructed the public streets."

A notice to this effect, informing the owner of the property that the "lines on the map on file in the office of the City Engineer marked 'foundation of new building,' are ten feet north and south respectively of the property lines", was served by the Street Superintendent upon Mr. Buillard, with the additional information that unless the said obstructions were removed at once by the owner, the Street Superintendent would perform the work in his stead.

Up to date the "obstructions" have not been removed. It may be stated that they will not be until an order of court, commands their removal, as Mr. Buillard differs from the city authorities concerning the boundary lines of his property. It is his contention that the buttresses surrounding the old courthouse were private property, and it is upon the ground formerly occupied by these buttresses that he has placed a portion of the foundation for his new building.

The question at issue will doubtless be carried into the courts, and until a by these buttresses that he has placed a portion of the foundation for his new building.

The question at issue will doubtless be carried into the courts, and until a decision has been rendered in the matter work on the building will cease.

O. Morgan, of the firm of Morgan & Walls, architects for Mr. Bullard, states that there is small probability of work on the building being resumed should the matter be forced into the courts, as Mr. Bullard is a wealthy man, and is not wildly anxious to increase his store of coin by erecting elegant buildings on otherwise worthless land. Architect Morgan explains that Mr. Bullard is possessed of a certain amount of lassitude, or something like that, which will operate against a resumption of work on the building, should it ever cease. Contracts to the amount of $70,000 have already been let, and there are further contracts amounting to as much more, which will be given out should the city repent of its obstinacy in contesting Mr. Bullard's claim to the ten feet of land, which is now in dispute. Mr. Morgan is naturally anxious that work on the building should continue, and expresses great regret over the possibilities involved in litigation in the matter.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

The case of J. W. Davis, a San Pedro druggist, and also editor and publisher of the San Pedro Sun, against Philip Alward, an old man, who has been pelting him with verbal missiles for some time past, created a good deal of interest yesterday in Department Four.

deal of interest yesterday in Department Four.

The trouble began away back in September, 1893, with a bargain by which Alward gave Davis $30 to give a man named Savage, and some others, particular fits through the columns of the Sun. Alward afterwards repented, and wanted his money back. Davis refused, and Alward has had it in for him ever since.

wanted his money back. Davis refused, and Alward has had it in for him ever since.

Many sharp words passed between the two men, and finally, one morning, as Davis was standing peacefully upon his own doorstep. Alward walked up, and, after a few preliminary shots, pleasantly charged him with being poisoner, and called him bad names.

Davis retorted hotly, protesting, against the accusation, whereupon Alward invited him to the foot of the cliff to have it out in a social way with the aid of their fists. Davis declined, as he was, much the younger and stronger man, and saw no advantage in either thumping or allowing himself to be thumped by Alward.

Alward followed up his little pleasantries, and repeatedly attacked Davis in the same way, repeating his abusive epithets, and threatening to stab Davis or brain him with a club. Once he actually drew a knife upon him, and, when kept at bay, threw a stone at Davis's head.

Alward's, systematic denunciation soon had a bad effect upon Davis's business, as evidenced by a serious falling off in the drug business. The accusation of poisoning had been based upon an over-dose of chloral-hydrate, accidentally administered to one Mrs. Gustofson, who died from the effects, and people lost confidence in Davis as a druggist. His paper, too, suffered to such an extent that he soon abandoned it, so he brought the case into court, and is now suing for $5000 damages for slander.

Davis has been largely implicated with the Sallors' Union troubles at San Pedro, and was arrested five times at the instigation of the striking sailors, but was never convicted.

The case will be continued today.

setting to Work on the Big Horn Favorable News from the Julian and Banner Districts-A Heavy Yield from the Hidden Treasure Silver King Reopening.

Advices from Pomona, Cah, state that $40,000 will, be invested in the tunnel and stamp mill of the Big Horn mine before the year is out. It is said that over $20,000 worth of gold, and silver fore was taken out of the tunnels on the north side before the property changed hands, but want of necessary capital to provide sufficient water prevented further developments.

Reports from Riverside state that the Golden Chariot and Jessie mines have been sold by J. Shey to Day & French of Rediands for $12,500. These mines are on a parallel ledge and near to the Santa Rosa mine, one of the richest of that group. The shaft is down to 240 feet, and will be continued down to the 300-foot level. As soon as the necessary developing has been done a mill will be erected by the new owners.

The Blebada mine at Banner crushed fonty-three tons of ore a short time ago, which went $54 to the ton. Twenty tons of low-grade ore, crushed a week before, went $20 to the ton. This ore was taken from a fifty-foot shaft, no drifting or shafting having been done. So far this single shaft has netted the owners about $60 a foot.

Reports from the mines east of Banner continue favorable. Among those spoken of, in addition to the Elebads, are the Ranchito and North Star. These three mines, it is stated, have furnished ore enough to mill over $5000 already. The deepest shaft is only fifty feet, but in each case the ledge is reported looking better as it does down.

A. P. Frary, says the San Diege Sun, who has been working the Hidden Treasure mine in the Julian district, brought in $7000 in builton, taken from eight, and one-half ($9 tons of, ore. This mine has been abandoned three or four times by different parties, but the present owners seem te have found some good rock. They are working about two hundred men below the surface, and on a new chute of ore. Frary reports a big revival in mining: interests in the Julian and Banner districts. The Sun says the records show fearly $5,000,000 in Reide taken out of the Julian district alone from the begi tion of the Book of Romans-The Coming Symphony Concert-Number of Excellent Lectures.

LONG BEACH, July 18.—(Special Correspondence.) With rearranged programme for the summer school and the machinery of the whole organization carefully oiled, the assembly exercises move along as smoothly as could be desired. Yesterday's sassion was a desired. Yesterday's session was a most successful one, as The Times re-port of this morning indicates. The large number of copies of The Times received here by special carrier from Los Angeles early this morn were all sold in a few minutes, and an extra order was made to come by the first train. The Times is universally commended for its enterprise in supplying its many readers here with the paper by special mesterprise in supplying its many readers here with the paper by special messenger.

Last evening's programme afforded much enjoyment. Rev. Dr. J. C. Fletcher spoke from his seemingly limitless fund of information upon Italian life, past and present, obtained through extensive travel and research in that old land. A pleasant prelude to the lecture consisted of recitation and music. Dr. Covert of Long Beach gave an admirably executed violin solo, Miss Ada Henderson recited in a very pleasing manner the difficult selection from Ben Hur, "The Charlot Race." Miss Jessie Goodwin sang sweetly, in a clear soprano voice, a difficult solo. The doctor called attention to the fact that when Pompeli was buried beneath the ashes of Vesuvius, the Apostle Paul had suffered martyrdom under Nero at Rome only eleven years before, and that John the Evangelist was not only still living, but was not banished from the empire by Domitian to the Isle of Patmos until seventeen years after Pompeli had been destroyed. Dr. Fletcher then gave a description of Pompeli, and Herculaneum. The stereopticon came into play here, and there were displayed various views illustrating the doctor's statements. The audience visited Pompeli and were thrilled by sights of still life in an ancient city. The lecturer also gave a few views outside of Italy, showing Mt. Pilatus with its railway similar to that on Echo Mountain, but for interest of surrounding scenery and for boldness of construction he gave the palm to our own California road, which now carries the visitors to the heights of Mt. Lowe.

Dr. Frost grows more interesting in the part of the Party Interesting in the Party Interest of Surrounding presentation of the Party Interest of Mt.

Lowe.

Dr. Frost grows more interesting in his presentation of the Book of Romans. The audience is increasingly large. The subject discussed was man's relation to God, and man's responsibility to trust upon Jesus Christ alone, and by faith alone in Him to obtain salvation. Future life or eternal death inevitable and dependent upon man's attitude toward Christ as fixed in this life, was dwelt upon, and the entire discussion was most profitable.

Rev. F. M. Larkin lectured to the Normal Bible Class upon "What is the Bible?" This is one of a series upon "God and the Bible," the theme of this one being the existence of God.

one being the existence of God. Scripture assumes everywhere existence of God and does not stop to prove the fact. The God of the Bible is in striking contrast to all the gods of primitive peoples. The existence of the God of the Bible is in harmony with the rational conclusions of a sane man. The non-acceptance of God's existence is absurd. There is change in nature, but there must have been a beginning. There is design in all things. Every effect has a cause. God is the great first cause.

classrooms. The building will cost between $6000 and $7000. The church has doubled in membership the last six months.

In the cavity of the stone were placed a condensed history of the church, the roll of officers and members, the roll of officers and members, the roll of the different societies connected with the church, the different church papers of the date, the annual report of the woman's board of missions, a copy of The Times, and one of the Herald, the names of the architects, Howard & Train, and the name of the contractor, W. S. Daubenspech.

The ceremonies commenced with the singing of the doxology by the congregation. The pastor, Rev. John Mccleod Gardner, then introduced Dr. Day, who made a fervent prayer. The hymn, "How firm a foundation," was sung, followed by reading of the scriptures by the Rev. W. S. Young, pastor of the Boyle Heights Presbyterian Church. The quartette, Miss Liddell, Mrs. Armistead, and the Messrs. Goodwin, rendered, "Build the Walls of Jerusalem," followed by an impressive prayer by the Rev. Mr. Laverty of the Second Presbyterian Church, East Los Angeles. Then, amid a deep and solemn silence, Mrs. Upson and Mrs. Paxton, two prominent members of the church, sealed and laid the corner-stone, a handsome block of brown sandstone, marked A. D., 1895. When it was neatly fitted in its place, the pastor read a selection appropriate to the occasion, and then Rev. Dr. Chichester made an earnest prayer. things. Every effect has a cause. God is the great first cause.

Mrs. Averill's English literature class opened with characterization papers upon personages in Shakespeare's King Lear. Mrs. C. P. Dorland of Los Angeles delineated the character of the three sisters. An interesting discussion followed upon the points brought out in the paper. Miss Cuthbert read, from King Lear, the storm scene, adding interest to the study of the play. Miss Bishop gave a characterization of the fool. His chief traits were summed up as being unflinching loyalty to his master; cheerful, sunny temper; tact; patient industry in the discharge of duty; and his unusual common sense.

Mrs. Averill gave a closing address upon the ethics of the play. She analyzed the character of Lear. Of his mental condition she said: "His actions with his youngest daughter show him to be on the borderland of sanity and madness, where, indeed, we all are, when we will do the things we know to be wrong, then seek to hush the uneasy consciousness of a wrong done by adding another and yet another until the dark stain is deep and ineffaceable. In Lear the subduing, softening, ennobling effect of the discipline of life adding another and yet another until the dark stain is deep and ineffaceable.

In Lear the subduing, softening, ennobling effect of the discipline of life is the ethical teaching. In Gonrell, Regan, Edmund and Cornwall their wicked lives and the apparent triumphing of evil in their career, we recognize that, 'Though the mills of the gods grind slowly, they grind exceedingly fine,' and that the triumphing of the wicked is short. 'It is impossible but that offenses come, but woe unto that man by whom the offense cometh. It is better for that man that he had never been born.' Cordelia develops from a character of obstinate contrariness into a life, which, silent, loyal, benficent, draws by a subtle process all whom it touches, into higher aspirations and purer endeavor. In the final triumph of right over wrong, we recognize in Kent and Edgar that the best and most ideal life is that which forgetful of self lives for others. In spite of the injuries suffered by each they are rewarded at last by their vindication of their choice of right doing at whatever cost. The starting-point of human development lies in feeling, which rushes into acts that reveal man to himself so that change character must originate in feeling. We must feel right before we act right. A very instructive discussion was had upon two assertions made by Mrs. Averill, namely: "We can realize good only through the ministry of evil," and "In the substitution of self for God lies the germ of all sin."

The great symphony concert which is marked A. D., 1895. When it was neatly fitted in its place, the pastor read a selection appropriate to the occasion, and then Rev. Dr. Chichester made an earnest prayer.

The pastor made a short address, in which he spoke of the sympathy between all the churches, and thanked the people for their presence. Then, declaring that, as long as the church stood, it would be free to the very poorest, and never would a pew be rented in it, he earnestly begged the congregation to contribute, among them, the $500 yet to be raised within three weeks. Messrs. Bacon and Hamilton passed the subscription cards.

Rev. J. M. Newell of the Bethesda Church was then introduced, and made an interesting address on "The Silent Testimony of the Church," saying that in completing the programme of such a delightful occasion, it was necessary for somebody to make a few remarks. That this was not the foundation of a factory, to produce something material for the world; we call it a church, and it means to society, love, faith, hope, inspiration, peace and righteousness. It sustains a peculiar relationship to God; the love of God is greater for the church of His people, than it is for their home, for all in it belongs to Him. Its influence is dependent upon God's spirit. When we enter, we feel that it is God's place, where His honor dwells. "More than this, it stands among your homes and factories as a great defense against all evil, and a great advocate of all that is good. It stands as a wall of protection for the moral and civil peace of the community. It is more than a passive defense; every church is a power-house, and every consecrated Christian is a dynamo, who carries out with him great influence and power for the defense of the church."

The speaker then referred to the 'tremendous influence of churches and Christianity, "The church stands as the friend of the masses, and its doors are wide open; whoever comes shall go away with the peace and loving interest in the church; he closed by invoking a blessing upon the church and its me through the ministry of evil, and "In the substitution of self for God lies the germ of all sin."

The great symphony concert which is to be given Saturday evening is looked forward to with pleasure. It will be a rane evening's entertainment, Prof. Cornell brings from Los Angeles by special train, his orchestra of thirty plees. The train will return after the concert, so that all who wish to do so may come down and return on, that train. J. H. Zinck and Mrs. Priestly Hall, mexzo-soprano soloist, of Riverside, are to be the soloist.

Prof. Elmer Brown's lecture on "Pedagogy" this afternoon was a clear-cut statement of modern theories of education. His hour was divided with Prof. McClatchie, who, completed his valuable lecture on "Bacteria and Diseases," The professor talked of diseases caused by bacteria, and of the modern investigations. for destroying these germs and thus save life. This part of the lecture was highly instructive and very valuable.

Dr. Weller, in introducing Mrs. E. T. Scott, said that the Chautauqua platform is a broad one. It is broad enough to take in the temperance question. We welcome Mrs. Scott this afternoon to talk to us of "Our Battle." Mrs. Scott was received with applause as she stepped forward. She is a dignified, silver-haired woman, and is an orator of no small merit. She pictured a true home, and compared it graphically with the saloon. God is surely sifting this nation into two classes, the home-defenders and the saloon-defender in the time the programme of Spanish and wexican music by the superb Los Angeles have not the programme of Spanish and wexican music by the superb Los Angeles and the saloon-defender in full run, contests with the mode-defenders and the saloon-defender in the life plant of the programme of Spanish and wexican music by the superb Los Angeles and the saloon-defenders in the through the church in the church; he closed by introking a blessing upon the church and the church; he closed by introking a blessing upon the church and the church; he closed by intr

WO CASES FOR THE CORONER AT LONG BEACH.

The Bullet the Murderer of Mrs Meyers Put into His Own Neck Proved Fatal—The Bad Record of tions of prisons, almshouses, and other such places, and of the awful effects of the saloons as in these places displayed. She called attention to the great railroads which employ only total abstainers; of the great scale-manufactory of St. Johnsbury, which requires the applicant for a position to sign an iron-clad pledge, and this is not a temperance society, either. The lecturer condemned the system of license as a system of evil. Perfect machinery constructed by law for the ruin of our sons. A man discussed prohibition with a temperance woman one day, saying of those who were now addicted to the use of liquor, "You cannot teach old dogs new tricks." Then, said the lady, "We'll get new dogs." Upon the question of woman's request for the ballot, Mrs. Scott spoke enthusiastically, and made an eloquent appeal to the voters to support the amendment to California's Constitution for the purpose of giving woman the right to vote. Her criticism upon the attitude of Christian and other philanthropic women and churches which pass by the unfortunate and downtrodden women and men, had the right ring. There is no place for the saloon in this land, and as the battle goes on little by little we will drive the enemy back and America shall be free.

President Weller added a few ringing words upon the subject at the close of Mrs. Scott's address.

The following is the programme for Friday, July 19:

10:00 a.m.—English Literature, Mrs. Averill; Conchology, Miss Shepard. Yesterday the town of Long Beach was still greatly excited over the Meyers tragedy of the day before. The only new features added to the case were the death of Meyers and the Coroner's inquest over the bodies of the murderer and his victim. The verdict of the jury in the one case was suicide and murder in the other, in accordance and murder in the other, in accordance with the circumstances as related in yesterday's Times. Coroner Campbell, who drove from Los Angeles to Long Beach Wednesday

Los Angeles to Long Beach Wednesday night, arrived there in time to take the dying statement of the murderer. Meyers began to lose consciousness about 1 o'clock Thursday morning, and at 2:30 a.m. went, without an expression of regret at having done the awful deed, to render his account for his terrible crime at a higher bar. His father arrived from near Inglewood at about 12:30 a.m. The body has been removed to his home.

rived from near Inglewood at about 12:30 a.m. The body has been removed to his home.

Irvin Linson, the wounded man, will no doubt recover, although his wound is a serious one. He is resting under the influence of opiates.

The body of Mabel Meyers, the dead woman, was shipped to her mother, Mrs. Stewart of University, yesterday. The grief-stricken mother was driven to Long Beach Wednesday night and returned home Thursday morning.

Meyers killed himself just in time to avoid being arrested on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Last November he went to Richard Dillon of the firm of Dillon & Kenealy, who have 160 acres of land near Inglewood and tried to secure a lease of it. Dillon refused, but Meyers subsequently plowed several furrows around it. When Dillon found it out he protested, but finally allowed Meyers to go ahead with his plowing. Of the crop of hay that he raised Dillon got one-half. The other half Meyers sold to Dodd & O'Gara for $800, but before they removed it Meyers sold eighty tons of it to a man named Inglis, receiving for the same $80 on account. It was for selling Dodd & O'Gara's hay that Constable Johnston was about to serve a warrant on Meyers. The Constable a short time ago served an attachment on Meyers because he did not pay some Chinamen whom he had employed the wages due them.

Meyers's reputation was not good at University where he formerly resided. He first married Mabel Wilkinson by contract about six months ago, she being then but 16 years old. Her mother, Mrs. Stewart, objected, and secured a writ of habeas corpus for her daughter. While the habeas co Eillis, School of Art and Design, Mrs.

It is alleged that Meyers some time ago accused his young wife of infdelity and brutally beat her, for which she left his bed and board. He accused her also of having lived two weeks in adultery with one Frank Doyle. PASADENA, July 18.—(Regular Correspondence.) The reception of the W.R.C. of the John Godfrey Post, G. A. R., Thursday afternoon, was an exceed-ingly pleasant affair, and was held in the place of the ordinary fortnightly meeting of the corps, and was at the sme time a celebration of the seventh aniversary of that practical and help-ul body of women, who are doing a such for the old soldiers and sallors of nation, and are teaching patriotism with willing hands and earnest hearts. There was no set programme for the ecception, but it was none the less delightful. Mrs. Mattoon presided at the blanc, and during the afternoon, ren-dered several fine selections admirably. Quartermaster Summons of the encampment association was present, and made a short talk upon the subject of the meeting in Santa Monica in August. Mrs. Van Horn, president of the Encampment Association, was among the guests, as were several ladies from the W.R.C. of Los Angeles. Refreshments were served to all comers, Mrs. Buchanan presiding at the punchbowl, and Mmes. Rasey, Kyle, Crowell, Lacey and Jarvis assisting, in doing the social honors. The "punch" was lemonade, and cake, berries, sandwiches and other goodles were dispensed liberally. The reception was one of the most enoughle of the many lately given by the W.R.C., and that is saying a great deal, for it. ANOTHER BURGLARY.

Between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock Wednesday midnight, one of the 'cracksmen" who of late have found Pasadena a favorable field for operation, made a visit to the Balmoral Hotel. Effecting an entrance through one of the kitchen windows, he climbed over the range and ascended to the third floor, by means of the backstairs, it is supposed. At all events he passed through the second-floor hall, and probably finding no doors open, went further up, and seeing the door of Mr. Stockwell's room standing open, entered and began to look about him. Mr. Stockwell had left his door ajar, that there might be a better circulation of air through the room, and being a light sleeper, the movements of the intruder cautious though they were, awakened him. The thief passed into the glare of the electric light, which was reflected into the mirror of the bureau from the street below, and Mr. Stockwell saw his face, and called out asking him what he wanted. The burglar made no reply, but selzing a little case upon Mr. Stockwell's bureau, made haste down the stairs, Mr. Stockwell in pursuit, He succeeded in getting away with his booty, and instead of the jewels which he evidently though the box contained, was no doubt chagrined enough to find that he had secured nothing but a small case of inexpensive electrician's tools. The their was evidently perfectly familiar with the house, but no clew to his identity has been discovered.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

Franz Herman and Gus C. Beyer were arrayed against one another in Rocorder Rossiter's court today, the latter having been charged by the former with disturbing his peace. The trial was first-class comedy for the court-frequenters, and when it was concluded and Byers found not guilty, Mrs. Byers swore out a complaint against Herman, and he was in turn arrested on the charge of disturbing the Beyers' peace. The dog that was the cause of it all still pursues the festive gopher, but Franz Herman could hardly appreciate the humor of the situation in which he found himself through his objections to the canine's antics. He said some lurid German words when he was convinced by the Recorder that it was his turn to be arraigned, but he was finally made to understand the course of events, and will appear for trial on Friday. (By Homingspigeon Bertha C. of the Catalina Carrier-pigeon Service to The Times.) The scene on the wharf each evening when the 6 o'clock boat arrives is suggestive of the arrival of an excursion train at Niagara Falls. Hotelens runners literally tumble over each other in the scramble for custom, and a deaf ening bedlam of shrieks greets the in-coming passenger as he descends the gang-plank of the steamer. It is metgang-plank of the steamer. It is metropolitan enough to forever silence the croakers who foretold a slim season at summer resorts on account of the perennial hard times which have been dinged in our ears for the past three seasons. Today (Thursday) the young man was held under bond to appear Saturday for examination as to the charges preferred against him. He does not deny having the wheel, as it was found in a very short while after it left his possession, but he claims that he bought it of another man in Pomona. The fact that when the officers spotted him and started to arrest him he gave them a good race, does not tend to substantiate this latter claim. He is now in the County Jail awaiting his examination.

Whale Ashore, to be a Sunday At traction There. SANTA MONICA, July 18.—(Regular Correspondence). Whale stories are stock in trade for seaside people to re-gale their interior friends with, but Santa Monica has a genuine fish story today which may be of interest to many. Wednesday afternoon Fisherman Coffy and two companions, while at the banks below Ballona, noticed a great commotion in the water out at sea, and, on investigation, found an Arctic whale doing battle with a large sword fish. The latter managed to stick his adversary to the extent of a mortal wound, and some sharks or other large fish near took a meal out of the whale as the body floated around. The whale drifted shoreward finally and the fishermen made fast to it and succeeded in beaching the monster. On bringing tidings of their catch to town a pretty commotion was stirred up, and there was lively bidding for the visitor from Northern-waters. A bargain was finally struck, however, by which the whale is to be beached on North Beach until Monday next, at least. The Collis went to the scene, and at high tide this afternoon pulled the body into the sea and towed it to the big wharf. Later it will be beached near town and will be open to inspection of the public. There is supposed to be as many as ten barrels of oll in the head, and, besides what this will bring, the captors of the dead animal get $200 for use of him as an attraction over Stinday. The fifteentrain service of the Southern Pacific for Sunday will undoubtedly have to be increased to accommodate all who will wish to take a look at his whaleship.

District Attorney and the Board of Equalisation - New Bicycle Track Will Soon be Ready.

SAN BERNARDINO, July 18.—(Regular Correspondence.) The Executive Committee of the great double-decked Fourth of July celebration have been in seasion for several days, to see about paying the piper, now that the dance is over. They first collected in all the bills, and the way they came in was a startler to the oldest inhabitants. When all had been computed they found them about $400 more than they had calculated upon. Then they called in the aid of the Finance Committee to see how to pay the bills and not go see how to pay the bills and not go down into their individual pockets to see how to pay the bills and not, go down into their individual pockets to accomplish the act. The chairman of that committee, T. H. Goff, handed in his figures, from which it was learned that there was 252 subscribers to the fund, the largest being $50 and the smallest 25 cents, the whole footing up to $1539.30. Then there was a refund on railroad tickets of $56.70, refund from J. H. Tittle on firemen's tickets of $5.10, profits on sales of badges $35.10 and receipts from the balls $187.50, making a grand total of receipts at $1524.70.

The total expenditures foot up $1582.21, leaving a deficit of $57.61 yet to be made up. The figures on receipts do not include over $25 subscription from each newspaper office of the city, which was paid in work for the committees. Co. E was also at large expense in attending to the wants of its guests, which came out of the pockets of the members, and does not appear on the list, so there is but a few dollars to raise to lift the debt, and there is no doubt but that it will be forthcoming at an early date.

THEIR ACTS ARE VOID.

THEIR ACTS ARE VOID. District Attorney Daley this morning notified the Board of Supervisors that all their acts as a Board of Equalization since Monday, July 15, were void. The old law provided for the session of the board in the capacity of tax equalizers from the first until the fourth Monday in July. The notice for the meeting of the Board of Equalization was given under the old law. That has been changed since, and the sessions of the board for the purpose of equalizing the taxes have been limited to end on the third instance of the fourth Monday in July, hen ce the notification by the District Attorney. Whether the fact that the notice of the board that their session as a Board of Equalization would continue until the fourth Monday in the month will in any way affect the work done by the board prior to the 15th, is now a question, but it is hardly probable that an error in the notice would invalidate any act lawfully done by the board. The board nothwithstanding this decision, will continue to meet until their advertised time expires next Monday, when they will adjourn sine die as a Board of Equalization.

The Particulars of the Dos Palmo Springs Murder.

The Particulars of the Dos Palmes Springs Murder.

RIVERSIDE, July 18.—(Regular Correspondence.) Acting Coroner Mills, Asst. Dist. Atty.
Crowe and Stenographer Pelton returned on the 11 a.m. train today from Dos Palmos Springs, bringing with them, the dead body of E. H. Hendsch, the man killed Tuesday evening by Jerry Gardner, a mention of which has before been given.

From Justice Mills, who impaneled a Coroner's jury and held an inquest over the remains of the murdered man at Dos Palmos yesterday, the following particulars of the affair, which was witnessed by six or eight different persons, were obtained.

Hendsch had just come in from the mine, in which others are interested, and which is some thirty odd miles distant from Dos Palmos, and was watering his horses at the springs. Shortiy Gardner drove up, he having just came in from a prospecting trip. He commenced talking to Hendsch and accusing him of having said that he (Hendsch) intended to kill him the first time he met him. Hendsch remarked: "Jerry, I never said any such thing." "Then." said Gardner, "you have been telling around that you are grub-staking me." Hendsch, a little bit irritated and walking toward Gardner, said: "Whoever says that, whether you or some one else, is a llar." Gardner replied: "You are a — lying downer of the same time drawing his revolver and pointing it straight at Hendsch. The latter was in the act of turning to walk away when Gardner shot, the bell striking Hendsch under the right arm and a little back of the center, passing directly through the body and lodging just under the skin on the outside of the left arm.

Hendsch clapped his hand over his heart and and, "Boys, he has killed me," and, staggering forward a step or two, fell and expired in less than thirty seconds.

Gardner asked some one near if he had not done right, and then remarked that he was giad it was dane, as it had to be done some time.

done right, and then remarked that he was glad it was dane, as it had to be done sometime.

Among those who witnessed the shooting were Joseph Brown and J. M. Corbett of San Bernardino, "Hank" Rankin, F. D. Riche and son and a Mr. Simmons.

One of the party said: "Jerry, you had better give yourself up," and started toward him to take his gun, when Gardner brought up his revolver again and said, "Stand back. I will go to Saiton and give myself up." He went to his horses, made a halter of a rope and placed it on one of the animals, and, seeming to have changed his mind, turned the horse loose and started off on foot south and disappeared from view. The reason he was not stopped was because there was not a revolver or gun in the crowd, the only firearm being a shotgun one hundred or more yards away.

"Jake" Westerfield of Indio and Constable C. M. McCoy of Beaumont came down the next morning, and, with Mr. Riche, started in pursuit at an early hour.

Word came back during the day that the direction in which he started, doubled back and started for Canyon Springs, where it is supposed he was going for the protection of some cowboys. HENDSCH'S ANTECENDENTS.

ANGELS CAMP, July 18.—E. H. Hendsch, who was killed at Dos Palmos Springs by J. Gardner, was born in Tublumine county, but raised at Copperopolis, this county, where his mother and two brothers reside. Another brother is employed at the Jones mine here. They are highly respected, but the deceased had an unenviable reputation. A few years ago M. Honey stabbed him at Copperopolis in self-defense. Hendsch went to Idaho and returned about two years ago, but remained orly four or five days. During that time he got into another row at his home and, as his life was threatened, he left. He had participated in various fracases and was in each instance considered the aggressor. He was a bright conversationalist and would have had many friends had it not been for his quarrelsome disposition. His mother has gone to Riverside to attend the funeral.

There is work for the newly-ap-pointed dog-catcher on the East Side. Sherman Smith, the urbane clerk of Department Five of the Superior Court, says there is at least one dog in East Los Angeles that the pound-keeper may have, and he earnestly hopes the dog-catcher will come around soon and take the brute away. Smith, himself, is the owner of the canine, and thereby hangs owner of the canine, and thereby hangs a tale.

Mrs. Smith dotes on dogs, and Sherman himself is quite a fancier of blooded "bow-wows." In discussing the good points of dogs with a man who had business in Judge Shaw's court some time ago, Clerk Smith remarked that he would like to get a good dog to give to his wife as a birthday present. The man, who is a rancher on the outskirts of Pasadena, spoke up and said he had a splendid dog, which he would part with for a small consideration. A bargain was struck, and on the eve of his wife's birthday, Smith wended his way to Pasadena. When he got there he found that he had to walk about three miles in order to reach the house where the owner of the dog lived. Undaunted by the distance, he struck out, but lost his way, and trudged about seven miles before he found the place. In his hurry to get back to catch the last car to Los Angeles, he did not take time to examine the dog carefully. He bought the animal, therefore, like the man who bought the proverbial pig in a poke, and took if home for a present to his wife.

When surveyed in daylight the brute proved to be a most ungainly and ill-to his wife.

When surveyed in daylight the brute proved to be a most ungainly and ill-mannered one, but Mrs. Smith at first pretended that she thought it was a real nice doggie, because it was a present from her husband. But the canine soon showed himself to be so utterly worthless that even she had to acknowledge that he was a cur that deserved to be condemned to the pound. That is why Sherman is sighing for the pound-keeper to come around. He says the next time he buys a dog he will look up his pedigree and take him at first only on probation.
